

Privacy Policy

E-mail

We do not like spam any more than you do, so we will not sell or give away your e-mail address to any other company or third party. If you use any of our contact forms to send us e-mail we will only use your e-mail to reply to you regarding your question. Do not use the supplied contact forms to send any privileged or confidential information. Internet messages can be intercepted. Understand that contacting our firm does not establish an attorney-client relationship. Our firm must observe certain formalities before agreeing to represent anyone. Therefore, do not convey any privileged or confidential information to us unless and until a formal attorney-client relationship is established. Unsolicited e-mails from senders other than existing clients will not be treated as confidential.

Browser Information

We log IP addresses, which are the locations of computers or networks on the Internet, and analyze them in order to improve the value of our site. We also collect aggregate numbers of page hits in order to track the popularity of certain pages and improve the value of our site. We do not gather, request, record, require, collect or track any Internet users' Personal Information through these processes.

Cookies

We use cookies on our site to better understand how our visitors use our site. Our cookies contain no Personal Information and are neither shared nor revealed to other sites.

You also have choices with respect to cookies. By modifying your browser preferences, you can accept all cookies, be notified when a cookie is set, or reject all cookies. (For more information on how to block or filter cookies, see <http://www.cookiecentral.com/faq> .) However, if you reject some or all cookies, your experience at our site and other sites throughout the World Wide Web may not be complete. Also, you would be unable to take advantage of personalized content delivery offered by other Internet sites or by us.